

Environmental Management Policy

Saturn Security (London) Ltd recognises that as a security company operating in a wide range of situations need to not only be environmentally aware of the impact that the products and services that we use possess, but incorporate tools for managing the impacts of our organisation's activities on the environment. We are committed to work to ISO 14000 standards and have recently been registered as an ISO 14001 company. Saturn Security (London) Ltd recognises the benefits of an EMS in minimising environmental liabilities whilst maximising the efficient use of resources. In addition we expect to reduce waste, build awareness of environmental concern amongst our employees as well as increase organisational efficiencies. Saturn Security (London) Ltd will consider and include the following:

Environmental policy – whilst we have an environmental policy, we are mindful of the need for it to be consistent with our company's overall objectives.

Environmental Impact Identification – identification and documenting of the actual and potential environmental impact of our operations need to be undertaken, this will be achieved by undertaking an environmental audit.

Objectives and Targets - through the use of the audit, we intend to adopt more stringent longer term objectives to encourage improvements in performance.

Consultation – we will take account of the community, consult our staff and make sure that all parties are committed to the EMS.

Operational and Emergency Procedures – our procedures will be reviewed to ensure that they are compatible with our environmental objectives and targets, with any changes included.

Training – all staff will undergo environmental awareness training to familiarise them with their responsibilities for implementing the EMS.

Review of Audits and Compliance Monitoring – this will be conducted regularly to ensure that the EMS is achieving its objectives and where needed operational procedures refined to meet the company's objectives.

In conclusion, Saturn Security (London) Ltd expects that by implementing the EMS we will benefit not only the environment, but also encourage every one of our staff to play their part in participating by contributing ideas, suggestions on how to improve our performance.
